YOUNG REPUBLICANS MEET

Platform Writers Adopting Ike's No-Retreat-in-Viet Line

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Republican platform writers are adopting the no-retreat-in-Vietnam line urged on them by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, leaders hinted Tuesday, despite cautious "de-escalation" proposals from the Rockefeller camp.

Eisenhower sent to the Republican platform committee hearings a special message urging that both parties reject any "camouflaged surrender." The United States should stress to Hanoi, he said, America's "patient determination to obtain security for the South Vietnamese."

Almost simultaneously, Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, political ally of Gov.

Nelson A. Rockefeller, was urging upon the policy body a fresh assessment of the role of Americans as "policemen of the world."

There should be no jeopardizing of the Paris peace talks or damage to the morale of fighting men, Shafer said, but the new assessment "should lead us to de-escalation of the war and a de-Americanization of foreign involvement wherever our influence has become a way of life."

Shafer, who took the time originally allotted to Rockefeller in the hearings but insisted he was not speaking for the New York governor, drew the longest and loudest applause of the day. As policy chairman of the Republican Governors Association, he urged that the GOP take firm and specific positions on every great foreign and domestic issue, saying:

"I am convinced that a meaningful document—that spells out how we intend to lead the nation—will go a long way toward insuring victory in November."

But as for Vietnam, committee insiders indicated that Eisenhower's view will prevail in the final platform to be sent to the Republican National Convention next Tuesday.

These statements kept the Vietnam issue rumbling persistently in low key, despite visible efforts by Chairman Everett M. Dirksen and other party leaders to downplay it in the interest of national unity and bipartisanship in foreign policy—as well as the necessity of building a platform broad enough to carry any of the potential GOP presidential nominees.

Cloak of Secrecy Around Ray Buttoned Tighter

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The cloak of secrecy around James Earl Ray was buttoned even tighter Tuesday under a new court order forbidding attorneys and other court officers from making virtually any comments in the case.

The order handed down by Judge W. Preston Battle forbids those connected with the case—regardless of how remotely—from granting interviews or holding press conferences.

Renjoined them from making any out-of-court comments on a specific list of subjects or "any and all other statements which may be prejudicial to a fair trial by an impartial jury in this case."

Specifically ruled out were any comments on legal strategy.

Battle, the judge who will preside over Ray's trial for murder in the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., acted after a committee of eight attorneys reported it found "probable cause" to believe his previous no-publicity edict had been violated.

The committee's report said these probable violations arose from statements made by U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark; Sheriff William N. Morris Jr.; Arthur J. Hanes of Birmingham, Ray's attorney, and Memphis attorney Russell X. Thompson.

Czech-Soviet Talks Have Indications Of Tough Bargaining

PRAGUE (AP)—Russia and its recalcitrant Czechoslovak ally extended their Cerna summit talks Tuesday night amid indications of tough bargaining. In the background, Soviet military and political maneuvers intensified pressure on the reformist Prague regime.

Highlighting the military phase was a report that Gen. Samuel Kodaj, a Czechoslovak army officer and member of Parliament who is opposed to liberalization, had a meeting Monday with "the Soviet army staff which is operating on our territory" since the end of Warsaw Pact maneuvers in June.

The trade union newspaper Prace said they discussed the situation at Strecno, a village in northern Slovakia. It is 150 miles northwest of Cerna and about 15 miles from the border of Poland, where informed sources have reported sighting substantial Soviet combat and supply equipment on the move since Sunday.

Tass said Tuesday's session at Cerna, which is hard by the Russian frontier, "passed in an atmosphere of frankness and comradeship." The use by the Soviet news agency of the term "comradeship" seemed to indicate the leaders were holding their talks in a polite and businesslike way, without loss of tempers or harsh language.

"Frankness" is used in Communist terminology to mean differences of opinion. The combination of this with "comradeship" apparently meant that disagreements remained, but there was no immediate threat of a breakup or drastic action. Qualified sources said it seemed almost certain that the showdown conference which opened Monday at Cerna would continue at least until Wednesday.

day. The Czechoslovaks had expected it to be over in only one or two days.

The Russians were reported insisting that all members of both top-level Communist delegations be able to air their views. That would mean 13 Russians and 16 Czechoslovaks headed by the party chiefs, respectively Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexander Dubcek.

Mob Violence Breaks Out In Downtown Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mob violence broke out again in downtown Mexico City Tuesday night as several thousand club-wielding youths wrecked city buses a block off a main tourist thoroughfare. The violence followed the withdrawal of federal troops after they dampened an earlier outbreak.

The mob, marching from the old university section near the National Palace, commandeered four city buses near the city's central square, forced out the terrified passengers, smashed windows, and then ran the vehicles into the sides of buildings.

Riot squads, swinging long white batons, dispersed the crowd near the statue of Carlos V. The special force, accused of brutality by the young people, has been a key issue in the disorders.

Earlier army troops fired volleys of shots in the air and, charging with clubs and fixed bayonets, cleared the city's streets after a night of wild student riots that authorities called Communist inspired.

A heavy rain helped calm the situation. Federal troops later were pulled out of most areas in what Mayor Alfonso Corona del Rosal said was evidence of the government's good faith.

In five running scuffles with teen-agers late Tuesday afternoon, the police made arrests that raised to 1,116 the number taken into custody since anti-government demonstrations began Friday.

Rusk Prods V.C. Leaders On Steps to Halt Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk prodded North Vietnam's leaders Tuesday to say—directly or indirectly—what steps Hanoi would take to reduce substantially the scale of fighting if there should be a total halt of U.S. bombing in the north.

Sharply discounting reports that Hanoi already is showing signs of military restraint, Rusk told a news conference that what is important in the situation is "not what happened yesterday but what will happen tomorrow, next week, next month. . ."

Rusk's statement appeared to go somewhat beyond the conditions for a bombing halt enunciated last February by Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford. There was no mention by Clifford of Hanoi's intentions for the future. Clifford held that "normal" resupply operations by Hanoi in moving men and supplies into the South would not violate the U.S. conditions for a show of military restraint.

Rusk contended that the United States had made a major move to de-escalate the war on March 31 when President Johnson ordered the bombing halted in almost 80 per cent of the territory of North Vietnam where 90 per cent of the population lives.

"We need to have something better than just a blank wall, something better than just committing ourselves to a course of action on our side, leaving the other side with complete freedom of action to move men and arms from North Vietnam into South Vietnam in whatever way they wish," Rusk said.

Troops Reported Massing For Possible New Drive

SAIGON (AP)—B52 bombers hammered late Tuesday night and early Wednesday at an area running from Saigon west to the Cambodian border where thousands of enemy troops were reported massing for a possible new drive on the capital.

A prolonged rumble of bombs—each plane carries 60,000 pounds of explosives—could be heard clearly in Saigon, and windows rattled from the shock waves.

The eight-engine B52s flew six missions 30 to 50 miles from the capital along what is now called an invasion route. South Vietnamese intelligence says some of the enemy troops are armed with powerful Soviet-built rockets.

Thus the B52s so far were the main American weapon for an attempt to break up the enemy preparations.

In the air war over north Vietnam, Air Force and Navy pilots continued to hit supply lines and transport in an effort to choke off some of the supplies headed for South Vietnam.

Da Nang, Vietnam's second largest city, is threatened by increased terrorist attacks and enemy shelling, the commander of the 1st Corps area said Tuesday.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam said the enemy command plans harassing actions, with assassinations and bombing of U.S. and government installations.

Deficit of $25.4 Billion Largest Since World War II

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's largest one-year deficit since the World War II period was reported Tuesday by government officials closing the books on fiscal year 1968.

In the year that ended June 30, the deficit was $25.4 billion as expenditures outweighed receipts, $178.9 billion to $153.5 billion.

It was in line with unofficial guesses of $25-plus billion widely circulated in the closing weeks of the fiscal year, but it was a third above the $19.8 billion deficit forecast by the administration in January.

Although only half as large, the fiscal year 1968 deficit is the largest since the record highs of 1943 through 1945—$57.4 billion, $51.4 billion and $53.9 billion.

In a joint statement, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Charles J. Zwick, director of the Bureau of the Budget, said a spurt in U.S. military spending and the foreign military assistance program accounted for $3.6 billion of the 1968 rise from the January estimate.

They said also that the estimate "assumed earlier enactment of the President's proposals for an income tax surcharge and an acceleration of corporation tax payments."

This package was relied on to bring in $2.7 billion by the end of the fiscal year, they said, adding: "none of this was actually collected before June 30 due to the later enactment of the surcharge legislation."

In January, President Johnson estimated the cost of the Vietnam war for the fiscal year at $24.5 billion but on March 31 he tacked on an additional $2.5 billion.

The Fowler-Zwick statement offered no firm figure on the cost of the war for the year. They said only that outlays for military assistance and all military functions of the Department of Defense—not just in Vietnam—were up $1.1 billion from the March 31 estimate.

For all the other activities of government, they said, the net result was that spending was $400 million less than estimated in January.

Support for Bipartisan Proposal For Elections Begins to Build

Support for a bipartisan proposal to insure election of the Presidential candidate who wins the biggest popular vote nationally in November has begun to build, according to its two chief sponsors.

Reps. Charles E. Goodell (R-N.Y.) and Morris K. Udall (D-Ariz.) said their mail reflected a growing enthusiasm for their plan to win sufficient pledges from Congressional candidates that, in the event of an Electoral College impasse, the House of Representatives will carry out the will of the people by supporting the candidate with the biggest popular vote.

The two Congressmen last week announced creation of a Peoples' Presidential Committee to obtain the pledges. Presently, the committee, composed of members of the House, is serving as a steering committee to be expanded later. Goodell said he had indications of support from GOP Presidential aspirants Nelson A. Rockefeller, Richard M. Nixon and Harold Stassen and Democratic candidate Hubert H. Humphrey. Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace wired his unqualified opposition.

In addition to Goodell and Udall, five members of each party are serving on the temporary steering committee. They are Republican Reps. John B. Anderson, Ill.; Catherine May, Wash.; Rogers C. B. Morton, Md.; Robert T. Stafford, Vt.; Robert Taft Jr., Ohio and Democratic Reps. John E. Moss, Calif.; Henry R. Reuss, Wisc.; Samuel S. Stratton, N.Y.; Frank Thompson, N.J. and Al Ullman, Ore.

Mishap Results In $445 Damage

A car-truck mishap on Pennsylvania ave., E. in front of Guilfre's Market Monday resulted in property damages totalling $445.

The mishap occurred at 4:58 p.m., borough police stated, when a car operated by Samuel Denardi, 1107 Pennsylvania ave. E. crashed into the rear of an Anderson's Baking Co. truck parked in front of the market.

Police stated, Denardi pulled into a parking space behind the truck and when he applied the brakes his foot apparently slipped from the brake to the accelerator. Damage to Denardi's vehicle was set at $425, while damage to the truck was estimated at $20. There were no injuries reported.

Protest to be Lodged Against Rt. 17J Proposal

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — The Jamestown Board of Education Tuesday night directed School Superintendent Dr. Harold L. O'Neal to lodge a strong protest against a proposal made by the Jonethis & Larson Advertising Agency to alter the site's alignment of Route 17J. State engineers had designed improvements to Route 17J on Fairmount ave. between Hallock and Geneva sts., which showed the highway running directly through the advertising firm's building located across from the Fairmont Elementary School.

A partner in the advertising firm, Terry C. Jonethis, appeared at a recent city council meeting and recommended Fairmount ave. be widened to the south of the present route instead of to the north. This would save the agency's building, but would consume more than half of the lawn at the Fairmont School.

Dr. O'Neal told the board the advertising agency's proposal would put the street within 30 feet of the school's win-

Warren Resident Has Mishap In Corry

CORRY — A 23-year-old Warren resident was involved in a traffic mishap here Sunday.

City police said a truck, driven by Judith A. Hohman, 23, of Daugherty Run rd., Warren, hauling a horse trailer, struck the rear of a stopped car on East Columbus avenue.

According to police, a car driven by Angelo Frisina, 57, of Corry was heading east on East Columbus and stopped, waiting for traffic to clear for a left turn into the Dairy Queen parking lot.

There was another car behind Frisina's, investigating officers said, but the operator passed the Frisina vehicle on the right and went on.

The Hohman truck came up behind the stopped Frisina car and the driver told police she did not see the stopped car until it was too late. The truck hit the rear of the car and drove the latter 50 feet forward.

Mrs. Frisina, a passenger in the car, was taken to Corry Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

Total damage was estimated at $1,300.

Columbus Boy Attacked By Saint Bernard Dog

COLUMBUS, Pa.—An eight-year-old Columbus boy was seriously attacked by a Saint Bernard dog Monday. He was taken to Corry Memorial Hospital and released after treatment.

Gerard Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin of Columbus, was attacked by a Saint Bernard belonging to Larry Miller of Gamma Road, Columbus. He suffered severe lacerations of the scalp, multiple puncture wounds over much of his body, and a fractured arm.

The boy was rescued by Larry Aldrich, who beat off the dog and took Gerard home. Aldrich, a meter reader for the Corry Water Company, then drove the boy to the hospital where young Martin was treated for shock.

The dog is now under quarantine by the Pennsylvania Department of Health, according to Leonard Weston, Warren County agent for the Bureau of Dog Law. Weston and John Grandenetti, state Department of Health agent, investigated the attack.

The Saint Bernard is the mother of five three-week-old puppies. Her owners say the dog will be destroyed at the end of the quarantine period.

When the attack occurred the Millers were not at home. The dog and her puppies were being kept in the owner's closed garage and it is thought that some children had been looking at them earlier. The owners are under prosecution for violation of the dog law.

Although the boy has been released by the hospital, he will require further treatment for his wounds. His father, a State Police lieutenant stationed at the Meadville barracks, is a former member of the Warren State Police. Mrs. Martin is a native of Warren.

Columbus Area Youth Cited For Violations

CORRY.—City police have cited a Columbus area youth with two violations of the motor vehicle code, the outcome of a one-car crash here last Friday morning.

Cited was John A. Kuzma, 17, of RD 1, Columbus, whose car went off the road on Union street and struck a utility pole at 5 a.m. Friday.

Kuzma was charged for driving between midnight and 5 a.m. on a junior license without a parent or guardian with him and for reckless driving.

Information on both charges was filed with Alderman Norbert Bachofner.

House Okays Extension Of Food Stamp Plan

(C) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — The House voted Tuesday for a sharp expansion of the government's program of food stamps for the needy.

The action, if sustained by the Senate, could mean expansion of the program into hundreds of additional cities and counties throughout the nation.

In voting for a four-year extension, with no spending limitation, the House overrode the recommendations of its own agriculture committee, which had approved a simple one-year extension with a $245 million spending ceiling.

Under the program, needy families purchase food stamps at sharply reduced rates, depending upon the size of the family and the income. The stamps are then used in purchasing food at grocery stores.

The program is now in effect in 1,027 counties and cities. The stamps are used to feed an estimated 2.5 million people.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman had originally sought a one-year extension with a $245 million spending limit for this fiscal year.

However, after listening to demands of the Poor People's Campaign encampment this summer, and subsequently touring poverty areas, Freeman called for a four-year extension with no spending limitation.

Congress already has appropriated $225 million for food stamps this fiscal year. Freeman now says he will seek an additional $100 million in a supplemental appropriations bill.

The additional $100 million, Freeman has said, is the absolute minimum needed to finance food stamps in 239 counties and cities now on the waiting list.

House approval of the expanded program -- by a vote of 227 to 172 -- was a major victory for Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., who had fought for several years to expand the food stamp program.

Her proposal for a four-year

Volcano Erupts; 51 Are Dead

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Mt. Arenal erupted through the night Tuesday, ending 500 years of dormancy, and officials said 51 persons perished and 90 are missing in a flood of lava, ash, rocks and boiling water.

More than 100 injured persons, many in serious condition, were taken to hospitals. Property damage was estimated in the millions of dollars. Hundreds of head of cattle perished.

About 4,000 refugees fled the area near the volcano, 62 miles northwest of capital, after it began erupting Monday.

Witnesses said the volcano shot off half its cone into the air, and spewed flaming gas which burned everything in an area 3 1/2 miles wide by 12 1/2 miles long.

Winds spread volcanic ash over a sector hundreds of miles square. There were reports that many persons had suffered burns and asphyxiation from the ashes.

Rain and clouds of volcanic ash that fell over a rich ranching plain between the volcano and San Jose slowed rescue teams dispatched from the capital.

New higher interest rates on Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares

Now U.S. Savings Bonds pay 4 1/4 %, new Freedom Shares pay 5%.

Today, Savings Bonds are a better investment than ever. Now they pay 4 1/4 % when held to maturity. And new Freedom Shares pay a full 5% when held to maturity.

Freedom Shares are still sold on a one-for-one basis with Series E Bonds, but now you can buy the combination any time at your bank—and not just on a regular monthly plan as before.

The higher interest rate on Savings Bonds applies not only to the new ones you buy, but to your older ones too for their remaining period to maturity—generally effective with the first full six-months interest period beginning on or after June 1. (Outstanding Freedom Shares are not affected).

The parking situation in downtown Warren poses more problems than just where to park. Sometimes it's a matter of moving through the clutter of vehicles double-parked for deliveries.

Vatican Newspaper Supports Pope's Stand on The Pill

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican's newspaper strongly defended Tuesday Pope Paul's encyclical condemning artificial methods of birth control as criticism mounted around the world.

An editorial in the daily L'Osservatore Romano pointed out that the encyclical issued by the Pope Monday "does not oppose the regulation of births." But it called artificial contraception "a mental, moral and physical mutilation."

The newspaper said criticism was bound to increase, but added that controversy is fashionable nowadays.

"Pope Paul is perfectly conscious that his new teaching, in harmony with that of his predecessors, will appear hard to whoever does not meditate on it," the editorial said.

"If a few persons don't understand it, it is because they are swept up in a wrong vision of man."

L'Osservatore stressed that the encyclical "does not oppose

Anglicans Reaffirm Stand Favoring Birth Control

LONDON (AP) — The world wide Anglican Communion repeated its stand Tuesday favoring artificial methods of birth control in the face of Pope Paul's ruling that Roman Catholics must not use them.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, after meeting with the steering committee of the Lambeth Conference, issued a statement reaffirming the decision of the 1958 conference that the means of limiting the children in a family are "a matter for the consciences of each husband and wife."

He explicitly added that this did not exclude the use of artificial means of contraception banned by Pope Paul in an encyclical Monday.

"The changes in human society and world population," said the archbishop, "as well as the development in the means available for contraception which have occurred since 1958, seem to reinforce rather than to challenge the argument employed and the conclusions reached at the Lambeth Conference of 1958."

A few hours earlier the presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States, the Rt. Rev. John E. Hines, issued a similar statement.

Saying that the Episcopal Church had always supported family planning and birth control by appropriate medical means, Bishop Hines went on: "We believe such action to be an aid to sound and healthy marriage, as well as a necessity in the grim struggle against poverty, hunger, even famine, in many parts of the world."

Bishop Ralph Dean of Canada, who is secretary of the conference said the Lambeth Conference steering committee of 12 archbishops and bishops was entirely of one mind with the Archbishop of Canterbury on the birth control question.

Cardinal Krol said Roman Catholics who find the Pope's ruling unacceptable "are mounting an insurrection against God."

Cardinal Krol told a news conference the pronouncement, however, "does not preclude theological discussion and debate."

'Frisco Gives Hubert Good-Humored Welcome

(C) N.Y. Times News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey did not take California by storm, but when he left for Washington Tuesday he was in better political condition here than when he arrived in the state Saturday.

This good-humored city gave him a distinctly more cordial reception than Los Angeles did and he seemed to have impressed the San Franciscans more favorably than the Angelenos.

His somewhat shaky financial condition was improved by his visit to the state. He met with about 40 men of means in Los Angeles Monday night and they reportedly went far, in their contributions, toward making amends for whatever slight the Vice President might have suffered at the hands of other southern Californians. No figures were available.

Furthermore, the Humphrey camp is talking about picking up 40 to 50 of California's 174 delegate votes at the Democratic National Convention. All 174 were won by the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in the state's presidential primary and since his death have not lined up solidly with any candidate.

Even the tone of the opposition was gentler here than in Los Angeles during the weekend. Anti-war pickets there shouted obscenities at Humphrey, but the strongest language heard against him here was "Go home Humphrey" and a chant of "U.S. get out."

Humphrey left the Fairmont Hotel at mid-morning and led a crowd of admirers, anti-war pickets and newsmen down one of San Francisco's steepest hills to the playground of a school in Chinatown. He spoke to about 1,500 persons there.

Several score supporters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy stood at the edge of the crowd and waved signs criticizing Humphrey. A few shouted slogans at him occasionally. But most of the crowd was friendly, and Humphrey plowed through it shaking hands and chatting before leaving.

He mounted a motorized cable car, one that has been taken off the tracks to be used for ceremonial occasions and inched through the narrow streets of Chinatown.

He and Mrs. Humphrey leaned from the car waving and shaking hands with people on the sidewalks.

The reaction of the street crowd ranged from polite to warm, but it could not be called enthusiastic in the sense that the late Robert Kennedy aroused enthusiasm when he visited here.

Humphrey spoke at noon Tuesday to about 2,200 persons at the Commonwealth Club and urged a joint government-business effort to rebuild the nation's cities.

The club gave him a standing ovation, and observers here said that was a honor rarely accorded the club's weekly speakers.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Veteran actor Lew Herbert, known for his musical comedy "tough guy" roles, died of a heart attack early Tuesday.

Herbert, 55, of New York was appearing as a gangster in the Civic Light Opera's production of "Kiss Me Kate" when he was stricken.

He had toured with the original Broadway cast of "Guys and Dolls" to London and played in a world command performance before Queen Elizabeth.

Herbert also appeared in numerous movies and on television with Milton Berle, Ed Sullivan and Bob Hope.

Maryland Governor Seeks Harsher Law Enforcement

NEW YORK (AP) — Maryland's Gov. Spiro T. Agnew indicated Tuesday night that law enforcement agencies should take harsher measures with rioters and looters.

He described the "agonizing of a police officer who couldn't bring himself to kill a looter over a pair of shoes."

"But where does this line of reasoning end?" Agnew asked. "Do you kill a thief over a pair of boots?—a diamond ring? When a person is looting another's property can his depth of involvement be measured by the monetary or material value of his loot?"

Agnew compared the reluctance of police to shoot looters with the reluctance of some young people to serve as a soldier in what they consider an unjust war.

"What war is ultimately, totally just?" he asked.

"Would it have been unjust for the United States to enter World War II when Nazi Germany occupied half of Czechoslovakia? Was it more just to wait until half of Europe was gobbled up and better than half a million people slaughtered?"

"It is unjust, unfair and immoral to create an attitude that says there is nothing worth dying for—because if this is true, then there is nothing worth living for either."

Agnew's remarks were prepared for the 17th international conference of the Greek orthodox Youth of America at the Statler-Hilton Hotel. Agnew said the recently released report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders "refutes its contention that white racism is the real cause of violence."

The Maryland governor said, "This masochistic group-guilt for white racism which pervades the . . . report, and to a large extent preoccupies the mind of our nation, excuses individual responsibility altogether."

"This willingness to tolerate individual irresponsibility under any circumstances other than insanity can crumble the walls of a constitutional democracy."

Agnew said the true cause of riots is the "permissive climate and the misguided compassion of public opinion."

He said the commission report would be viewed in history as "depicting the psychology of a nation strangling on its own success."

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — A Spokane couple told Tuesday how they fought off an enraged grizzly bear in western Montana timberland with only a fishing rod for defense.

Hubert Tauscher and his wife said they were fishing near Noxon, Mont., last week when they stumbled upon the mother grizzly's domain. Apparently fearful for her cubs, they said the snarling mother bear charged them time and again.

"It was like a nightmare that was real," Mrs. Tauscher said. She eventually climbed a tree, but Tauscher stood his ground with the fly rod.

"He whacked the grizzly over her nose with the tip of the rod," she said. "One time the bear reared up on her hind legs and roared, her fangs showing and her claws extended."

Each time the bear charged it was from a different angle but "he kept hitting the bear and poking at her, all the time yelling at her to get out of the country," she said.

They said two almost fully grown cubs then sprang out of the bushes and the three bears retreated.

Their report follows the recent killing of at least three grizzlies in sections of Montana after the bears threatened people.

Views in Easton Differ On Dr. Spock's Stand

EASTON, Pa. (AP) — "I guess I really think he should stick to babies. But he's entitled to his opinion on the war. And his opinion on the war doesn't have any bearing, I think, on his opinions about child care."

"My feeling is that if he could be so wrong about Vietnam he could be wrong about everything. I wouldn't use his book any more."

Those were the opinions of two women on Dr. Benjamin Spock, once famous only for his best-selling book on baby and child care, now equally famous for his participation in draft resistance to the Vietnam war.

He recently was sentenced to two years in prison and drew a fine. The Boston District Court decision was appealed.

To find out how Dr. Spock's war views have affected his reputation as chief advisor to the nation's mothers, 26 Easton area women with children under a year old, several pediatricians, representatives of four book stores which stock Spock's and the firm which publishes it were interviewed.

Of 16 women who said they had referred to the book and liked it, 10 were in general disagreement with Dr. Spock's stand on the war.

One woman expressed a common view when she said a man of his standing should not become involved in "such things as war resistance."

"If he wants to ruin his life by going to jail," said an Easton woman, "that's up to him. But he's a pediatrician first and I still think he's perfectly capable as a pediatrician. It's a good book."

Comments from book stores seemed to confirm the impression given in interviews.

The book buyer for Hess of Allentown said "Baby and Child Care" still is the most popular book on the subject.

"Even today it's the best one around," the buyer said. "It doesn't matter what he's got to say on Vietnam. The guy knows about babies."

"We have more requests for it than any other," a Whitehall book store said.

"It's still the standard book," a Bethlehem book store reported. "People make some funny comments as they pick it up, but they buy it anyway."

Only one store, in Easton noted any drop in interest.

Local pediatricians, who would comment for publication, tended to agree that Dr. Spock's popularity is waning. But they felt there was no connection between loss of popularity and his war views.

"People talked about the book a lot 15 years ago," said one baby doctor, "not much recently."

"My patients don't use it like they used to," said another. "But I don't think it has anything to do with war resistance. Just a matter of vogue."

Nationally, however, Dr. Spock still seems to be very much in vogue.

Meredith Press, New York City, which recently took over paperback publication of the book, said sales have increased since Dr. Spock became involved in war resistance.

This could indicate support for Dr. Spock's stand, or complete indifference to it coupled with a mushrooming population in babies, all with mothers wanting advice.

Shafer Signs 2 Bills Dealing With Firearms

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer's office announced Tuesday the signing of two bills dealing with firearms, and the governor expressed hope that the day would come when he could place his signature on a more comprehensive gun control measure.

One of the bills approved makes mandatory an additional 5-to-10-year prison sentence for anyone who uses a firearm to commit a serious act of violence.

The other bill signed restricts the carrying of firearms on the streets or any public place during an officially proclaimed emergency, such as a riot.

Shafer was in Miami, Fla., to attend platform hearings being held in advance of the Republican National Convention next week.

However, in a statement released from his office here, the governor said he was confident that a strong gun control measure can be enacted in Pennsylvania despite the refusal of the House to pass one before recessing earlier this month.

"I am convinced that the Pennsylvania legislature in cooperation with the administration and representatives of various sportsmen's groups, is perfectly capable of working out some sort of strong gun legislation which will protect the rights of the legitimate gun user," Shafer said.

Two weeks ago, the House soundly defeated a Shafer-backed bill that would have required all gun users to be licensed and all hand guns to be registered.

Jane Russell Divorces Husband

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Jane Russell divorced former football star Bob Waterfield Tuesday with testimony that he rarely was home during the last year of their 25-year marriage.

The tall and shapely Miss Russell was winning renown as the star of Howard Hughes' "The Outlaw" and Waterfield was the ace quarterback of the UCLA Bruins when they married in 1943.

She went on to leads in many other films, and he became one of pro football's greats while playing with the Los Angeles Rams. For years their marriage was deemed one of the movies' happiest.

Waterfield was not present, but was represented by an attorney, in a cross-complaint to her action he had charged habitual intemperance.

There was no property settlement. They have three adopted children, Miss Russell received custody of Thomas, 18, and daughter Tracy, 17. Waterfield received custody of Robert, 12, and the right to visit the others.

Winning the Battle

While the Warren area generally speaking is blessed with decent water facilities, the city of Erie has had to fight a long battle against pollution of Lake Erie and the adverse publicity that has followed. It is now a joy to read that community apparently has won.

According to the state Travel Bureau the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration has reported Presque Isle State Park beaches are considered "unquestionably acceptable for swimming." Regular tests of bathing waters off Presque Isle, supervised by the state, assure tourists of excellent quality of water; despite pollution in parts of Lake Erie.

If the good word gets around it should be a big boost in Erie's economy. Last year Presque Isle Park played host to over three million visitors who enjoyed swimming and beach, picnic, boating and fishing facilities. The loss of such trade could be a hard blow.

JAMES RESTON

What's Wrong with the System?

NEW YORK—The testimony of history is that the American political system works fairly well. Johnson, Kennedy, Eisenhower, Truman, and Roosevelt may not all rank among the great American presidents, but compared with the post-war leaders of other leading nations, they rank quite high.

Nevertheless, this consoling thought is not enough to cover up the deep dissatisfaction in the nation today with the men the system has thrown up to the top in 1968.

Not one of them expected a few years ago to find himself where he is in the presidential race right now. All expected the system to bring new young leaders to the pinnacle, and this has not happened, except perhaps in the case of the tragic Kennedys. The case of the Republican party is a puzzle. Though a minority party, it must still command the allegiance of well over half the lawyers of the nation and maybe as much as two thirds of the remarkable company of world-minded businessmen who have emerged since the war.

It has suffered under the disadvantage of being out of power for 28 of the past 36 years, but even in the eight Eisenhower years it did not find and develop an impressive young second team. In fact, the three most impressive Republicans to operate in the last decade—Secretary of Defense McNamara, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Gardner, and White House aide McGeorge Bundy—were all ignored by Eisenhower and brought to Washington by the two Democratic presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

John Kennedy did make an effort to create a "ministry of talents," but not much grew up in the shade of Lyndon Johnson. He came to the White House with the reputation of a "master politician"—actually he was merely a master parliamentarian—but he did not attract or retain many brilliant young minds and clung mainly to the familiar and comfortable men of his own generation.

This is a subject that has attracted observers of the American political scene since DeToqueville and Lord Bryce, who asked, Why do our best men not go into politics? Bryce thought in the 19th century that the attractions of commercial life in America were too great and the demands and penalties of political life too severe, and this conclusion still stands today.

The cost of political campaigning, of course, is a factor, but it can be overcome. After all, the two men who are supposed to be leading the race—Nixon and Humphrey—started in politics with less cash than any of the others, with the possible exception of George Wallace who is making a virtue out of his comparative poverty.

It may be that part of the explanation for our present plight is that we are not giving young men top cabinet posts as we did in the very early days of the republic. Johnson's and even Kennedy's cabinets were much older than Jefferson's, and today the Republicans are rejecting men like John Lindsay, Sen. Mark Hatfield, and Sen. Charles Percy as being too new and inexperienced.

The uncertainty and brutality of American politics, however, are probably the main reasons why so many talented men avoid the struggle. Even when they got close to the top Nixon and Humphrey were not used in the vice presidency to the full measure of their talents, and Humphrey now feels himself trapped by loyalty to the man who gave him the job.

The polls illustrate the uncertainty. Nixon was condemning them only a few days ago when they showed him running behind, now he is resting his case on Dr. Gallup's latest sample, which says he is running ahead.

The preparation for the Democratic convention in Chicago explains a lot more. Fifteen thousand soldiers, police and federal agents have been mobilized to protect the candidates and delegates who will gather to vote under what is called a democratic system. Two Kennedys have been killed in the political tumult. President Johnson has withdrawn in the hope of stopping the demonstrations and unifying his party, and the demonstrations go on, and the outlook is for more until the final vote in November.

It is hard to believe, in the face of all this, that something is not deeply wrong with the system, despite all its achievements of the past. And if, after all the dissenting criticism of the last few months, the result is a race between Nixon and Humphrey, the disenchantment of the young men and the poor may make the problem of governing even more difficult than the problem of getting elected.

The Falling Empire

The tragedy of the decade is the decline and fall of the British Empire. It was more powerful than Rome. The English were peculiarly gifted in the administration of colonies. In recent years, both empire and Winston Churchill have gone, while the pound sterling has skidded.

Queen Victoria, in pale granite, sits regally before Buckingham Palace. Her Imperial Majesty would not approve. The story of the nineteenth century is the triumph of this doughty little woman gathering commonwealths and colonies from the floor of the world and sweeping them into her dustpan. She and her ministers infused them with the iron of the mother country.

The sun sets on the Union Jack. The empire builders are no more: Victoria, Disraeli, Kitchenier, Nelson. The preservers of the empire have left the scene: Haig, Jellicoe, Churchill, Montgomery, Wavell, Cunningham, Grey, Lloyd George. What is left is a population of 55,000,000 in the United Kingdom and a tradition of valiant fighting men who often lost battles but never forgot how to die.

I take a train out of Charing Cross and the billowing green of the midlands waves in groundswells. Reading and Oxford are as they always were. In Blackpool, ruddy faces radiate excitement at the beach, the games of chance, the side shows. Southampton seems broad and empty without one of the Queens coming up sedately at four knots with the tierrier guns snapping at the flanks. Queen Mary has been sold to the Americans and Queen Elizabeth is heading to a similar fate.

So has London Bridge, which will be taken down girder by girder and stone by stone. You can sit on a stony hill above Scapa Flow and dream of great vessels of war like Royal Oak and Renown and George V and Ark Royal and Exeter, but the fleet anchorage is almost empty. Two weeks ago the government announced that more aircraft carriers and cruisers are consigned to the shipbreaker, John Brown at Clydebank. Lord Nelson stands atop a tall column in Trafalgar Square ignoring pigeons. We walk the Strand at night and the pretty girls with the antique eyes stand in the shadows, waiting. There are pubs for young men who hold hands and giggle.

Does anyone remember Beaty leading those battle cruisers in a dash to head Hitler off at Jutland? The names mean nothing? How about Cunningham in the Mediterranean stalking the Italians until he drew them out of Taranto and massacred the fastest destroyers ever built? Would you take my word for it that smooth-skinned boys at Ypres 50 years ago wrote their names in red blood on black soil? They were beaten at Dieppe and Dunkerque and went home to regroup and come back to the Continent to win. They helped to save France and give her back her honor, but France said that England wasn't worthy to be a member of the Common Market.

No one in England asks pity. These are the days of dusk. I listened to a doctor in the National Health Service tell me how many prescriptions he writes for heroin. Drug addiction is legal in England. The chemist will give a junkie a fix for a few shillings.

The young migrate to Canada and Australia. The dark skin-pour in from Kenya and the newspapers have ads which read: "No Coloured need apply." The pound sterling, once worth $5, limps on economic crutches. The government no longer commands; it entreats. Rhodesia secedes, and the British lion totters to his feet for a final roar.

The nation is taxed beyond endurance, but the little gardens are as neat as ever. After supper, millions of Britons are out front, raking and mulching and exchanging polite lies with neighbors. Once there were colonies great and small, mandates and protectorates: India, Malaya, Kenya, Egypt, Palestine, Burma and . . . tiny Malta has become an independent nation of the Commonwealth.

There is still the peacage, of course. The people hang onto their traditions as a frightened child holds onto a security blanket. The institution which commands universal respect is the royal family. The people who stand around the tall black fence at Buckingham at the changing of the guard are not Americans. The majority are Englishmen. They are willing to wait for hours for a glimpse of the Queen, and the opportunity to doff their bowlers to her.

Reports Underground Movement

WASHINGTON—An alarming confidential report has been prepared by the FBI on the underground black nationalist movement in the United States.

It may explain the sudden outbreak of violence in Cleveland, a city under a Negro mayor, Carl Stokes, which has been making great progress toward racial understanding but where a handful of black nationalists began shooting police last week merely because they were towing away a parked car.

It definitely explains some of the extremist moves by Negroes in Washington.

Finally it gives a key to the tremendous upsurge in the popularity of George Wallace of Alabama, who represents a latent American fascism whose answer to Negro violence is white violence.

What the FBI has found in Washington is that the black militants have worked out a secret plan to take over the nation's capital. The militants argue that Negroes are now in the majority and that given home rule they can take over the city.

At present Washington is governed by a Negro mayor, Walter Washington, an able executive, who is supported by a city council, half Negro, half white. Mayor Washington, however, is considered much too moderate by the black militants. They have worked out the following secret strategy to take over the capital, neighborhood by neighborhood.

First they will try to persuade the moderates to become militant, and if they fail, then bury them with frustration and harassment. When the moderates hold meetings, the strategy is to break up the meetings or be so unreasonable that the moderates will have to disassociate themselves from the meetings.

This was the explanation of the recent meeting in the African Methodist Episcopal Church to discuss neighborhood control of police where the black militants demanded that all whites leave. The whites present had been strong supporters of Negro progress. When they left, moderate Negroes walked out with them in protest.

Stokely Carmichael sat quietly in a back row of the meeting. He had been one of the chief architects of the new secret strategy. Another was Chuck Stone, former assistant to Rep. Adam Clayton Powell. Both militant and moderate Negroes are burnt up over the double standard of ethical conduct in Congress, whereby Powell, a Negro, was expelled, and Rep. Mendell Rivers of South Carolina, who has had inexcusable bouts with alcohol and has used government airplanes almost at will, remains a power in the white establishment.

This has caused far more resentment in the black world than congressional leaders realize and appears to moderates to be a legitimate case against Congress.

Carmichael, who helped devise the secret strategy to take over Washington, neighborhood by neighborhood, has been laying low following his subversive statements in foreign countries. He has been careful not to say anything publicly which would cause his arrest.

His operations, however, have been very carefully followed by the justice department, including some of his talks with the late Dr. Martin Luther King who finally persuaded Carmichael to stay out of the poor people's march.

Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, also anti-communist, seems more susceptible to Carmichael's persuasion than King. Shortly before the start of the poor people's march, he told the New York Times: "I love Stokely. He's a wonderful guy. I may disagree with individuals like him on strategy, but not on goals. All I know is that we will remain nonviolent."

Carmichael's real goal, however, is the overthrow of the United States government. He spelled this out last Aug. 18 in Hanoi at an Afro-American rally attended largely by North Vietnamese.

"We are reformists," he said. "We do not seek to reform. We do not wish to be part of the U.S. government, of its system. We are revolutionaries. We seek to change the imperialist system of the United States. We will be satisfied with nothing less."

"We are comrades," he told the North Vietnamese, "because we seek to redeem humanity, because we seek to stop the greatest destroyer of humanity—the United States. When we succeed, and we will succeed, our blood, our lives would have been a little price to pay."

Probably Carmichael did not know that his words were picked up by powerful U.S. monitors. What he does know, however, is that his words in Hanoi cannot be used to prosecute him in the United States because the justice department can get no witnesses from communist countries.

Back in the United States, Stokely is being very careful not to repeat these remarks. However, he has been very active in promoting quiet moves by which the black militants will gradually take over Washington.

SYLVIA PORTER

Construction Spiral

The urgent plea for "the utmost restraint" in price-wage increases issued last week by a highest-level Cabinet Committee will be just one big yawn, if the construction industry is any yardstick. For your own financial future, hope that this industry isn't at all typical; vow to try to help compel more discipline.

For what is going on in construction is a horrifying illustration of irresponsible abuse of power, arrogant disregard for the national interest, lost both by employers and employees.

Here are a few facts, put together by the Bureau of National Affairs in Washington: + Wage settlements in the first half of 1968, when most of the year's contracts are concluded, show an average (median) wage increase of 38.3 cents an hour! This is 21.9 cents above the median for all industries, 23.4 cents above the median for manufacturing industries alone.

+ Since 1963, the size of the wage hikes in construction has been accelerating at a spectacular pace and wage gains have far outrun increases elsewhere. Consider this speedup: an average rise at half-year in 1963 of 14.8 cents; in 1964, of 15.3 cents; in 1965, of 15.5 cents; in 1966, of 19.8 cents; in 1967, of 33 cents; and this year, of 38.3 cents. Not in any year has the average in any other industry even approached that in construction, and the gap has been widening each year. (In 1963, construction topped all industry by 6.8 cents; this year, it tops all industry by 21.9 cents.)

+ When you dig into specific settlements, the gains become even more arresting. In the Dayton, Ohio, area, for instance, the plumbers recently won a 28-month agreement which raises hourly wages by $1.95 and adds 35 cents to employer hourly fringe costs. Within 18 months, a journeyman plumber in this area will be earning $7.15 an hour.

This is wildly inflationary. By themselves the wage increases spread inflation throughout the economy. They also invite other unions to try to match the gains. And of course, if you are buying housing, you're using a dollar which is shrinking in value by the week.

Who is to blame? Both the unions and the contractors. The unions deserve condemnation for their almost prohibitive entrance and apprenticeship requirements, rules which create artificial shortages of workers and give the unions tremendous bargaining strength. The contractors deserve censure for their persistent refusal to permit modernization of construction methods, materials, techniques and codes, even though they know modernization would be safe, sound and help control the wage-price spiral.

This is a classic case of defiance of the nation's interests. And even if you've no intention of building a sandbox, you are the victim. So what do we do?

One possible answer suggested at a national conference called by the Associated General Contractors of America would be closer coordination of bargaining among employer groups along with customer support for a harder bargaining line. Winton H. Blount, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, says he detects among businessmen a growing awareness of the "terrific impact high construction costs are having on their operations" and believes they are ready to back the contractors in harder bargaining.

But the basic answer must be your own revolt, your own determination to force modernization of local building codes, methods, materials, techniques and your own boycott (to the best of your ability) of those responsible for the awful erosion of your housing dollar.

There must be an answer outside of detestable government controls. That's what's at the heart of the Cabinet Committee's plea for voluntary price-wage restraints.

The 'Regional Jail'

(Second of Two Parts)
HARRISBURG—Unquestionably one of the more intriguing facets of the new and revolutionary program upon which Pennsylvania is now embarking in the handling of convicts prior to release is the provision for establishing regional jails throughout the state.

What is a "regional jail"?

This is a facility to be operated by the Bureau of Corrections that will house inmates who have been sentenced to more than six months but less than five years.

Prisoners who have been sentenced to six months or less will be sent to county jails, as under the existing system.

Prisoners sentenced to five years or more will be sent to one of our eight state correctional institutions (located at Camp Hill, Dallas, Graterford, Huntingdon, Muncy, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Rockview).

The Bureau of Corrections will have the option of sending the six-month to five-year prisoner to a county jail providing this jail has received prior bureau approval.

The Bureau will select certain county jails as adequate to handle long-term prisoners. The present blueprint calls for splitting the state into six regions with a regional jail for each region.

Under the implementing legislation the Department of Justice (under which the Bureau of Corrections operates) has the authority to utilize existing jails or to have jails built — or both.

The idea for a regional jail system was conceived in 1963 by the Joint State Government Commission (research arm of the Legislature). The commission studied the state's correctional system for more than two years and concluded that most of Pennsylvania's 69 county jails — with some 6000 inmates — are archaic and unsatisfactory for anything other than very limited detention and custodial care.

In addition to sentenced individuals, these institutions contain persons committed in default of payment of fines, people awaiting trial or other disposition and prisoners being held for various authorities such as the federal agencies, parole board, police departments and juvenile courts.

One of the most serious shortcomings in the present system is the detention in county jails of adults awaiting trial along with sentenced prisoners. Pennsylvania has a system, not found in many other states, by which a court can sentence a person to a long term in a local institution.

Unfortunately the opportunity for successful rehabilitation is almost nonexistent in an inadequate institution.

This commission conducted a survey which disclosed that nearly half — 47 percent — of all prisoners in Pennsylvania are confined to local jails and that about 20 percent of these are serving sentences with maximums of two years or more.

As a result, the commission observed that the local Pennsylvania jail often has a mixed population ranging from the minor traffic offender to the major criminal with severe psychotic disturbances.

This situation does not exist in most states because prisoners sentenced to more than six months or one year are automatically confined in and treated by a state penal institution.

Consequently, the Joint State Government Commission recommended that the state establish a system of regional jails with each to accommodate 150 prisoners. These regional jails would have diversified and specialized programs of treatment and rehabilitation.

What will the regional jail system mean to the county jails?

State Attorney General William C. Sennett had this answer: "It will mean that the county jails will be in better position to cope with the remaining prisoners, individuals awaiting trial and persons who are detained at the request of other authorities."

"Once we establish these new penal systems, we can be confident that Pennsylvania will possess the most modern and enlightened correctional system in the country."

Are Conventions Sewed Up?

WASHINGTON — Vice President Humphrey's campaign managers boasted Monday that their man had won about 110 more delegates in Virginia, Kentucky and Utah. This news will not, however, receive the public attention that Humphrey attracted over the weekend when he was driven from the platform in Los Angeles by the boing of black militants.

It is a shame for opposition to Humphrey to be expressed in that manner, whether those preventing freedom of speech are black, white, or anybody else. But the fact remains that the Vice President has yet to demonstrate that he has much public enthusiasm to underpin all those delegates he is accumulating.

He does not lead the polls. He does not get the largest crowds. Whatever the circumstances were, he has no primary victories to point to.

His campaign has been neither lively nor dramatic, he has not spoken nor had issued in his name any memorable words (except the unfortunate "politics of joy" reference), and although he has marshalled up obedient droves of luminaries to endorse him, his political position is still so precarious that some of his staff men worry out loud that a word from President Johnson could destroy it; and the one message most of them really wanted was that Edward M. Kennedy would shore up a Humphrey ticket as his running mate.

The basic Humphrey strategy is defensive. B. counts on the nomination of Richard M. Nixon by the Republicans, a move the Humphrey men think will bring dissent Democrats back to the Humphrey fold, and on the third-party candidacy of George Wallace, which they believe will drain off votes from Nixon's conservative and southern support.

Humphrey's managers are not inflating (at least not by more than a respectable percentage) his delegate strength; obviously, the Democrats want to nominate the vice president. But just as obviously, there is a real question whether he can win in November, or even hold the Democratic party together, and as long as that is true the Chicago convention cannot be regarded as "sewed up."

Suppose, for instance, that the Republicans go through some kind of convulsion at Miami Beach next week and nominate Nelson Rockefeller — a candidate who would cut into Humphrey's strength among Negroes and other minority groups in the big industrial states with their blocs of electoral votes.

The Gallup Poll prematurely released in the Miami Herald Monday downgrades that prospect; it showed Nixon running better against either Humphrey or McCarthy than Rockefeller, a sharp blow to the New Yorker's hopes.

In other respects, the Republican convention also has begun to look like something less than an open-and-shut case. Not only has Rockefeller won some important party backing and picked up a few delegates to go with it, but the major favorite sons — Rhodes of Ohio, Romney of Michigan and Agnew of Maryland — appear to be holding.

More important, perhaps, the unadmitted drive of Governor Reagan is believed to be picking up steam, particularly in the south, and the victim of this is bound to be Nixon. Therefore — at least until the Gallup Poll publication — there appeared to be a rising possibility that Nixon could be denied a first or second ballot nomination. Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida was predicting during a Washington visit Monday that it would therefore be a "stop Reagan" convention — one in which much of Nixon's strength would quickly shift to the Californian, with the final showdown coming between Rockefeller and Reagan. And House Minority Leader Gerry Ford predicted there might be as many as five or six ballots.

All of this, the conventional wisdom holds, is whistling in the dark; Nixon and Humphrey have the nominations in the bag, and the conventions are being held only for the benefit of the merchants in Miami Beach and Chicago, and of the several dozen vice presidential candidates on both sides.

But it has not been a good year for conventional wisdom, conventional politics, conventional candidates, or conventional journalism. It would be remarkable indeed if all of 1968's indications of public yearning for new directions and new voices resulted only in routine conventions and first ballot nominations.

Dave Potter of Radio Station WNAE is on a business trip in the east.

Over 125 employees, their families and a few invited guests attended the Newell Press picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Olson, beautifully situated at Starbrick, along the Allegheny.

The Warren Aviation Club was first represented at the first annual air show held at Dick Green's airport in Ridgeway.

One of the most daring and unusual burglaries ever to occur in Warren took place when a thief during early morning hours threw a garbage can lid through the window of the George Pappas home, darted in and scooped up $423 in a bank pouch from a kitchen drawer.

Pennsylvania National Guard, Company I, of Warren will leave for two weeks of field training at Indiantown Gap, leaving at 2:30 a. m. from the local armory on Hickory street.

Kane-Made 'Guards' For Ray

KANE—When James Earl Ray, accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., decided to waive extradition and return to face charges, the Kane Manufacturing Corporation was called into action to "help provide one of the tightest security nets ever provided for a suspect in this country."

Robert Snow, president of the local industry, which is internationally known for its detention screen product, confirmed Monday that one of its items selected was installation of 137 Maximum Security Screens to cover exterior windows in an area off the Shelby County Jail where Ray will pass on his way to and from the courtroom.

The screens, a specialized product of Kane Manufacturing Corp., are constructed of heavy duty frames with high tensile stainless steel cloth.

As the Shelby County jail was constructed when architectural styles included huge, ornate windows, it was necessary to secure screen capable of being manufactured up to five feet in width and ten feet in height. Their outward appearance is similar to that of conventional screens. Hidden inside, however, are spring supports for the wire mesh which provides resiliency like that of a trampoline and gives the screen a capability to repel thrown objects.

This type of screen is used in modern institutions to restrain mental patients where the use of heavy bars would interfere with modern mental therapy, and in penal applications for security needs.

Snow said "In deference to the extraordinary precautions being taken in Memphis, these screens will be placed on the outside of windows and in some instances over existing bars."

Pancake Suppers for Summer

Summer informality is just right to entertain with a pancake supper. Not the same old recipe? Of course not, serve Flapjack Turkey made of sliced turkey dipped in pancake batter, seasoned with parsley and rosemary. They are easy to make when you use the two-pound package of frozen gilet and sliced turkey. Use a Teflon griddle and you can simply mix the batter, heat the turkey and let your guests shift for themselves. Keep the gilet gravy hot and handy. Serve tomato wedges and zucchini slices lightly dressed with vinegar and oil and dusted with dill weed and fresh peach sundae or watermelon for dessert.

The recipe is for twelve hearty pancakes. Double or triple it according to the size and whim of your guests' appetites. If some of the guests are late, you don't have to heat their turkey until later. That is the meaning of convenience foods and that is why many homemakers keep extra packages of both two-pound and 14 oz. frozen gilet gravy and sliced turkey in their freezers. Then, whether it is late evening hunger for a few or an after-the-swim gathering, you are always ready for Flapjack Turkey.

FLAPJACK TURKEY
1 package (2 lbs.) frozen gilet gravy and sliced turkey
Pancake batter for 12-16 pancakes
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon ground rosemary
Heat turkey slices and gravy according to package directions. Prepare your favorite pancake batter. Make it the consistency of thick cake batter. Stir in rosemary and parsley. Remove turkey slices from gravy. Keep gravy hot. Dip slices in pancake batter to coat both sides evenly. Fry on a preheated, lightly-oiled griddle until brown on both sides. Serve with gravy. Yield: 4 or more servings.

FLAPJACK TURKEY

Flapjack turkey is made by heating a two-pound package of frozen gilet gravy and sliced turkey; the slices are dipped in pancake batter and grilled. The garnish is an onion sliced, tinted and put in a green pepper cup.

SWEET 'N TANGY CHOPS

Sweet 'N Tangy Pork Chops are a quick meal-in-one skillet dish with a tomato-y sweet-sour sauce reminiscent of Oriental dishes.

SIP A CHILLED SOUP SNACK
... SUMMER'S COOLEST NEW IDEA. In a bowl, blend 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed beef broth, 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed green pea soup, 1 soup can water, and 2 tablespoons frozen concentrated orange juice. Place in refrigerator for at least 4 hours. Serve in chilled mugs or bowls. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

SPRUCE UP ECONOMICAL CHICKEN for company. In skillet, brown 2 pounds chicken parts with 1 small clove garlic, minced, in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add 1/4 cup sliced almonds; brown lightly. Stir in 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) chicken gravy. Cover; cook over low heat for 45 minutes or until tender. Stir now and then. Makes 4 servings.

Meal in a Skillet

Pea pods, pineapple, soy and canned tomato sauce add a touch of the Orient to these sweet and sour pork chops. Sure to be a favorite with adults, the flavor of these pork chops is mild to appeal to the children, as well.

Sweet and sour recipes depend on the blend of ingredients used in the sauce. The base for this sauce is rich canned tomato sauce to which we've added soy, spices and vinegar. The natural goodness of tomato sauce dependably balances the flavors of the other ingredients.

There are many ways you can vary this basic recipe. Frozen French cut green beans can be substituted for the pea pods. Chow mein noodles can be added for a crisp touch. As a garnish you can use peanuts, cashews, walnuts or coconut.

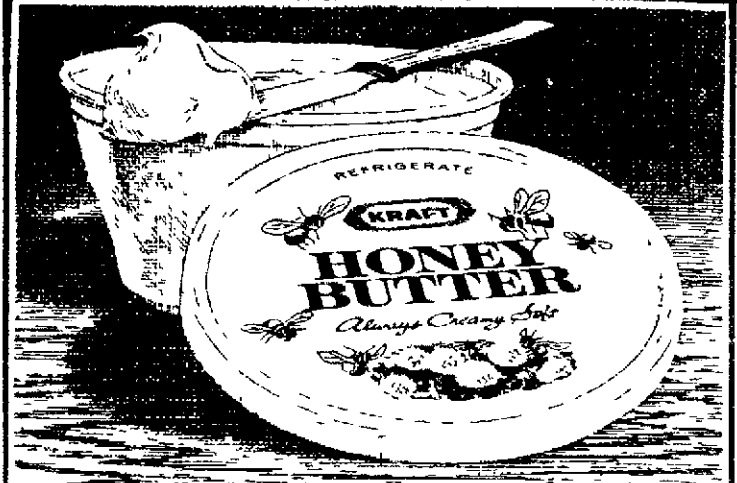

Serve Sweet 'N Tangy Pork Chops with a molded salad, tea and custard pie (frozen or prepared from a mix).

SWEET 'N TANGY PORK CHOPS
6 pork chops, 1/2-inch thick, trimmed
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 can (1 pound 13 ounces) sliced pineapple, undrained
1/4 cup sliced green onions
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 clove garlic, crushed
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 package (7 ounces) frozen Chinese pea pods (snow peas) or 1 package (9 ounces) French style green beans, thawed
Almonds or other nuts or toasted coconut, for garnish, if desired
In skillet brown chops; pour off

COMPANY COMING FOR DINNER? CHICK 'N TANGY BLACK BEAN SOUP to serve as a rave-winning opener. In a bowl, combine 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed black bean soup, 1/2 soup can water, 1/2 soup can buttermilk, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, and 1 tablespoon chopped scallion. Chill. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

PACKING A PICNIC LUNCH? INCLUDE A VACUUM BOTTLE OF CHICK 'N HAM SOUP to satisfy hearty young appetites. In a saucepan, cook 1/4 cup thinly sliced celery and a generous dash oregano, crushed, in 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, until celery is tender. Add 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed chicken noodle soup, 1 soup can water, and 1/2 cup cubed cooked ham. Heat; stir now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

STEVE CADY

LONG BRANCH, N.J., July 30—"You take the average wife," 50-year-old Tom DeCaro said here this morning, leisurely unfolding his Morning Telegraph on a pool-side table at Price's Motel. "They'll say, 'oh, your husband plays the horses?' They think of you as some kind of nut. A shady character, a guy that's really down and out. With me, playing horses is recreation. It relaxes me in every sense of the word."

DeCaro, sipping coffee while he watched his wife swim, could not have felt better. In a couple of hours, which is how long it takes him to complete what he calls his "homework," he would drive to the races at Monmouth Park, in nearby Oceanport.

His wife, as she has been doing every day during their annual three-week vacation, would swim in the pool or lie on the beach or visit friends in this once-fashionable seaside resort.

The two children? Grown up now, and working the budget? No more than $100 a week for vacation betting, saved up during the year from his $150-a-week job as a truck driver in the Bronx, N.Y.

DeCaro, tanned and rugged, took out a pencil and began his homework—a prime example of both the strength and weakness of racing's consumer market. He is the king of horse-player and track would be proud to welcome: enthusiastic ("it's exciting just being there, watching the horses being saddled, watching them come out, watching them run"), knowledgeable ("I look for price horses moving up in class after a sharp second or third"), dependable (15 years with Schwartz Laboratories, a beer-testing and development company), realistic ("I never bet more than I can afford to lose"), restrained ("Except for my vacation, I only go to the track on Saturdays, and I never bet with bookies").

Unfortunately for racing, DeCaro's attitudes aren't shared by large numbers of people in the status-oriented groups that set standards of what's popular; the occupational elite (professional and technical men), the educational elite (college graduates) and young adults.

"The horse racing industry," a market analysis by the Stanford Research Institute warned, "needs to be aware that the public attitude is gradually shifting away from being susceptible to interest in horse racing."

According to the survey, racegoing seems to be most attractive to middle-aged men who have not been to college and whose "Occupations reflect indifferent social status." Service workers (barbers, attendants, etc.) appear to be the most over-represented group, families with children the most under-represented.

Paradoxically, neither rising affluence nor rising educational levels (seemingly made to order for the intellectual challenge of selecting winners) have helped racing much, at least not in proportion to other types of recreation.

Why has racing patronage failed to keep pace with the general economic growth? Mostly, the survey says, it's because racing has failed to educate the public and give itself a new prestige or status image. Instead of going to the races, large numbers of people are using their newfound middle-class income for backyard swimming pools, boats, country-club memberships or foreign vacations.

Horse racing, complacent in the belief it would always enjoy a built-in market, was jarred from Green Mountain park to Santa Anita by the suggestion it was suffering from hardening of the arteries.

What to do? Take the grinniness out of racing, sell it as fun in the sun, as recreation. Do what the survey recommended: "The market must be educated to rediscover racing."

Some of the more enlightened places, such as Monmouth, are on the right track. Today, for example, Monmouth's new Dawn Patrol educational project took 190 adults and children on a two-hour tour. Later, novices at the races could read in the program that "When a horse is withdrawn from a race, he is said to have been scratched."

Elementary? Of course. Necessary? Apparently.

Commercialism Imperils Winter Olympic Games

CHICAGO (AP) — Avery Brundage, 80-year-old president of the International Olympic Committee, indicated Tuesday that the future of the Winter games is at stake because of commercialism arising in this year's Olympiad at Grenoble, France.

"We have a committee now investigating the future of the Winter Games," Brundage told a meeting of the College Sports Information Directors of America.

Brundage told The Associated Press later that, "I wouldn't go as far as saying the Winter Games will be abandoned. And they definitely will be held as scheduled in 1972 in Sapporo, Japan.

"But there is some sentiment to abandon them," Brundage said, "and the investigating committee, whose chairman is Mr. Van Karmabek of The Netherlands, may make a report at the Summer Olympics in Mexico City in October.

"This sentiment has grown especially after the Alpine skiing treatment at Grenoble. It was a bad experience given us by the International Ski Federation. There is just too much commercialism."

The skiers insisted that the manufacturers' signatures and labels remain on the skis and displayed them prominently when photographed.

"The ski federation prior to the Games barred manufacturers' signatures on skis," said Brundage. "Then when the events were ready to go, the federation said the signatures could not be removed without disturbing the balance, if you can believe such a thing as that."

Russell Rovers Beat Lassies

The Russell Rovers won from the Lander Lassies 9-4 in the Northern Area Softball League to pickup a fourth league championship in a row. The team had a 9-1 record this season.

JoAnn Olsen was the powerful arm to hurl the win while Barb Hitchcock was charged with the loss. Miss Olsen and Patty Tower banded doubles.

This brings the team's total wins in four years to 36 with only four losses.

MARY'S ON WHISKY

Although neither of them seem very happy about it, Mary Freeberg sits on a cowhorse named Whisky. The picture was taken at a high school rodeo in Richland Center, Wis. Cowgirl Mary is from Eau Claire, Wis. Whisky's antecedents are unknown.

All-Stars Will Pass Van Brocklin Says

CHICAGO (AP) — Center Bob Johnson of Tennessee and defensive back Major Hazelton of Florida A&M were named co-captains Tuesday of the 50-man college football team to meet the Green Bay Packers in the 35th All-Star football game Friday night.

All-Star Coach Norm Van Brocklin, former coach of the Minnesota Vikings, announced the selection of Hazelton as defensive leader and 235-pound Johnson as offensive captain at a civic unveiling of the All-Star squad.

Hazelton, a 185-pound speedster, is headed for the Chicago Bears of the National Football League. Johnson, a 6-5 All-American pick last season, was drafted No. 1 by the new Cincinnati Bengals of the American Football League.

Earl The Pearl Will Jump For More Money

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Earl "The Pearl" Monroe thinks Rick Barry did the right thing in jumping to the American Basketball Association and says he would follow suit for six figures.

Monroe won rookie of the year honors last year with the Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association. But he is hardly impressed with the NBA.

"Pittsburgh of the ABA offered me more money and the only reason I went to the NBA was to see if I could play with the best," he said in a Miami news interview. "Pride played a big part in my decision."

"But I made a big mistake," he added quickly. "And I'm paying for it now."

Monroe, fourth leading scorer in the NBA in his rookie year, was in Miami for a basketball clinic.

Monroe, a standout college player for Winston-Salem, N.C., jumped in 1,991 NBA points last year — just one point behind Wilt Chamberlain. Despite this accomplishment, he said, the Bullets won't give him a sizeable raise.

"I showed them my clippings and proved my point, and they still don't want to give me more

Steelers Cut Two Players

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers cut fullback Doug Dalton of New Mexico State and linebacker Bob Tubbs of Northwestern.

Dalton was drafted No. 7 by the National Football League club while Tubbs, who played with the Wheeling Ironmen last year, was trying to make the club for the second time.

The Steelers also said that defensive back Bob Morgan has been sidelined with a sprained knee and fullback Earl Gros suffered a minor concussion and would spend a day in a hospital.

Quarry-Chuvalo Fight Planned

TORONTO (AP) — Irv Ungerman, manager of George Chuvalo, said Tuesday the Canadian heavyweight boxing champion would meet Jerry Quarry of Los Angeles in a 10-round New York's Madison Square Garden on Thursday night, Sept. 26.

New Equipment, Man-Made Turf, MDs Answer to Football Knees

The All-America tackle was carried to the sidelines with a knee injury and the team's hopes for a conference championship left with him.

The squad's leading ground-gainer hopped to the bench, his arms around the shoulders of two teammates and one leg dangling uselessly.

These are familiar stories and sights during any football season and a problem that keeps coaches and trainers in a never-ending search for methods of preventing the frequent knee injury.

Recent studies listed damage to the knee as the most common disabling injury in football. They show twice as many knee injuries suffered by defensive players than by those on offense, with guards and tackles the most frequent victims.

Game movies showed, the survey continued, that there was no contact involved in fully one-fourth of the injuries. A player was hurt without even being hit when he attempted to pivot with a foot planted solidly on the ground and his cleats dug deeply into the turf.

Now, physicians say, many knee injuries could be eliminated by the use of synthetic turf, a new type of football shoe with revolving cleats, and proper conditioning.

Dr. Ed Martinet, chief of physical medicine and rehabilitation at Bowman-Gray Hospital at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, N.C., said the use of swivel cleats could cut down sharply on the incidences of knee injuries.

Marinet, former team doctor for the U.S. Naval Academy squad, said the swivel cleats prevent the foot from being planted solidly in the turf, thus eliminating the angle force of a block.

"With the new type cleat," he said, "the player, when blocked, may be knocked into the air by the impact, but this will not result in near the amount of injuries now suffered in the knee and ankle joints by the solidly planted foot."

Marinet said the man being blocked suffers knee injuries far more frequently than the one doing the blocking.

He also said the new synthetic turf where shoes with shorter cleats are used can cut down on knee injuries.

Dr. Carl S. Blyth of the University of North Carolina said there is no question that synthetic turf has reduced knee injuries but added, "There is a question as to whether it is just

Bob Foster

TKO's Polite

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Bob Foster, in his first fight since winning the light heavyweight title from Dick Tiger last May, scored a technical knockout over Charlie Polite of Springfield at 22 seconds of the third round Monday night.

Foster dropped Polite for an eight count in the second round and at the bell put his opponent on the canvas with a barrage of left-right combinations.

Referee Ed Bradley stopped the scheduled 10-round fight when Foster caught Polite with a hard right and opened up a cut under his eye.

Eagles Send Crenshaw Home

READING, Pa. (AP) — Linebacker Bob Crenshaw of New Mexico State was placed on reserve and sent home Tuesday by the Philadelphia Eagles.

Crenshaw reportedly suffered a kidney infection. At the same time, halfback Dan Berry, formerly of the University of California, was sent to Philadelphia to see the team physician for a injured ankle.

Track Meet Entries At Bethel Park High

This being Olympic year, requests for Entry Blanks for the Junior and Senior AMA-AAU Track Meets at Bethel Park High School, Saturday, August 10 and 17, have excelled anything in recent years.

The staff has been forced to make a second printing to meet the demand. The nine track events and seven field events, plus the heavy entries necessitate starting the meets promptly at 12:30 p.m.

Entrants are asked to report at noon. Be sure to have your entry in the office of the AMA-AAU, 507 Magee Building not later than August 3. Post entries will be almost impossible to handle and maintain the time schedule of events.

Even the Scottish Clan Track meet this Saturday, at Kenwood Park, reports heavy entries and they too have had to order the second printing of entry blanks. They will accept entries at noon on the field since many of the requests for entry blanks have been backlogged in the mail.

the turf, or the shorter cleats, or a combination of the two." Blyth is a professor of physical education, director of the university's laboratory of applied psychology and president-elect of the American College of Sports Medicine.

He suggested that an in-depth study be made on the modification of football cleats and on the synthetic turf.

At Duke University, all freshman football players this year will be wearing a new type of shoe in an effort to cut down on the knee injuries.

Developed by Dr. Bruce Cameron of Houston, Tex., the cleats under the front part of the foot are mounted on a swivel disc that rotates 360 degrees.

The revolving cleats enable a player to spin around rapidly during play, promoting agility and mobility and also reducing strain and tension on the knees and ankles.

Physical conditioning, said Dr. J. Leonard Goldner, chief of orthopedic surgery at Duke University Medical Center, can play an equally important part in reducing knee injuries.

Goldner said specific conditioning must focus on the thigh and calf muscles. But he is strongly opposed to the deep-knee bends and duck walking exercises used by many college coaches.

These, he said, put undue stress on the meniscus, the crescent-shaped cartilage with in the knee joint that's the object of so many athletic injuries to the knee.

Dr. James R. Whitehurst, medical director of the University of Houston health center, said there has been a "remarkable lowering" in the number of knee and ankle injuries suffered by athletes playing on the synthetic turf at Houston's Astrodome.

In a report to the American College Health Association meeting in Minneapolis, Whitehurst said the drop in lower extremity injuries was due mainly to the use of the soccer-type shoe.

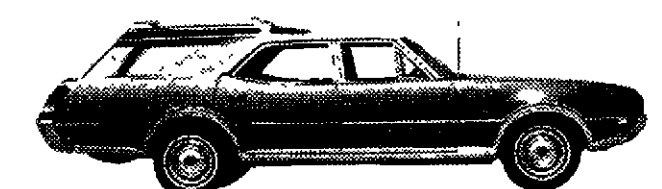

The shoe, with a short cleat, does not penetrate the man-made grass. He said that in 13 games played by the University of Houston in the Astrodome in 1966 and 1967 and in 16 practice sessions there were no turf-related injuries.

Police Sergeant, Alleged Robber Wounded During Shootout

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A police sergeant and an alleged robber were wounded Tuesday afternoon during a shootout in a midtown Philadelphia shirt shop.

The policeman, identified as Sgt. Andreas Hantwerker, was taken to nearby Pennsylvania Hospital, where authorities said he was treated for a shoulder wound and transferred to Philadelphia General Hospital.

The other man, identified by police as Clinton Howard of South Philadelphia, was taken to Jefferson Hospital where officials said he was in serious condition from three bullet wounds. Jefferson officials said they also treated Sam Shackmaster, 59, owner of the shop, for powder burns on the left hand.

Police said Hantwerker was answering a robbery call at the store and was shot as he entered. He then returned with six shots, they said. Another policeman also fired several shots, they said.

The shirt shop is only two doors from the Streets of Paris Cafe where a police shootout with a gunman ended in the death of a bystander earlier. Three weeks ago in West Philadelphia, another policeman, Patrolman Ross Brackett, 26, was shot to death while attempting to arrest a holdup suspect.

Corry Man Dead From Gunshot Wound

CORRY — An RD 3, Corry man was found dead shortly after 8 a. m. Monday of what Deputy Coroner Olin W. Brackett Jr. determined was a self-inflicted gunshot wound of the head.

The victim was found by residents of the Frontera Trailer Court, located about three miles west of Corry on Route 6. According to the coroner, David K. Sanden, 21, died instantly when shot in the right temple with a .22 calibre revolver.

It was reported he was depressed over marital difficulties.

Trooper Paul Sita of the Corry substation is investigating the incident.

Brothers Leaving Carmelite Monastery For More Urban Surroundings

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — The black robed brothers and novitiates of the Order of the Brothers of Mt. Carmel are leaving their serene 100-year-old Monastery to settle in more urban surroundings.

On Thursday 13 novices, several brothers and priests will leave the Carmelite monastery, which sits on 150 acres of land along Pennsylvania 31 in New Baltimore, and take up residence at Mt. Carmel College in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Priests at the monastery say the move is intended to provide the novices with more opportunities for work outside. They say opportunities at New Baltimore are severely limited.

The move also coincides with the transfer of students at the Niagara Falls college to Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis.

The Catholic order was founded at Mt. Carmel in Palestine and spread throughout Europe during the Crusades. Part of the order moved to the United States from Bavaria in 1864. The first church and a portion of the present monastery in New Baltimore were built in 1870.

The monastery is comprised of a complex of farm buildings, a church and a dormitory. Brothers like Anthony Jawalak a child prodigy born blind at birth in Pittsburgh in 1894, have made the New Baltimore monastery their home, either for a short period of time or permanently.

Brother Anthony, now 74, has been at the monastery since 1938.

He joined the order at the age of 32 after years as a concert pianist. He could play the piano at the age of 2 and by the time he was 16 he was playing with the Russian Symphony Orchestra as it toured the country. Persons at the monastery say that before he lost his hearing in 1948 he could detect 30 or more separate notes in one chime tone.

The novitiates, those who aspire to the brotherhood, have lived in the dormitory, which is connected to the church. They are required by the Catholic Church to take one year of indoctrination in the religious spirit of the order before they take their final vows. Those studying for the brotherhood then go on to Marquette University or learn a trade. Of the 13 novices at New Baltimore, 11 are studying for the brotherhood, two for the priesthood.

No decision has been made about what will happen to the buildings at the New Baltimore site after the order leaves. However, Father John Hertel will remain in New Baltimore and conduct services at the church.

Morton Sobell Seeks to Have 30-Year Prison Term Reduced

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Morton Sobell, convicted in the Julius and Ethel Rosenberg spy case, moved Tuesday to have his 30-year prison term reduced.

Thomas I. Emerson, his attorney, asked the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, to give Sobell credit for time he was held in jail under $100,000 bail while awaiting trial.

Sobell was arrested Aug. 18, 1950, and charged with the Rosenbergs with wartime espionage for the Soviet Union. The Rosenbergs were executed and Sobell was sentenced to 30 years. He began serving the sentence Nov. 19, 1952.

Emerson told Judges Abraham L. Freedman, Collins J. Seitz and Caleb R. Layton 3rd that the time Sobell spent in jail in default of bail could amount to 18 months.

Emerson said failure to give Sobell credit for that time could result in Sobell serving "more than the maximum sentence imposed."

The court took the appeal under advisement.

United Steelworkers Okay Billion Dollar Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers union approved Tuesday night a new billion-dollar labor contract providing the greatest wage increase in the union's history.

At the end of a stormy three-hour meeting, a majority of the 600 local union presidents of the U.S.W.'s Basic Steel Industry Conference shouted "Aye!" in favor of a new three-year contract that ends the threat of a nationwide steel strike at midnight Wednesday.

But a hard knot of opponents, fired up by two hours of a debate, demanded a standing vote. It was ordered and a clear majority stood up.

As the strength of the opposition grew obvious near the close of the meeting, a battery of top union officials rose to argue that the contract was the best package in the history of the union.

There were no figures but union sources estimated the pact ran between 85 cents and $1 per hour over three years.

"As a matter of fact, I know we never had an increase of this size in wages," President I. W. Abel said. He told the militant opponents that he didn't believe a strike would get them anything more.

Most of the opposition centered on unresolved local issues, especially seniority, grievance procedures, incentives and outside contracting.

Abel, contacted in the ballroom after the overwhelming approval said that he was "elated and it makes me feel good that we're over one hurdle and now we'll get on to the next hurdle."

Asked specifically what the contract was worth Abel said that he hadn't placed it exactly but it was something close to $1.

The opponents were told that many of their issues would be settled by then.

Earlier, Abel told the conference the contract had been hammered out at long and tedious bargaining talks that ended late Tuesday morning.

Abel, speaking in a flat, unemotional voice to the crowd in the 17th floor ballroom of the William Penn Hotel, said the offer from the nation's 11 biggest steel producers represented the best "economic improvements we've been able to negotiate."

Abel's remarks outlining the industry's offer were heard by a newsman who hid behind a door on a balcony in the ballroom.

The contract would be the biggest ever won by the USW in its 32 year history.

"I think all of us will agree that there is a tremendous amount of improvement here," Abel said.

"There have been some disappointments but we have made a step in the right direction," he said.

There was scattered applause when Abel finished his brief presentation and some grumbling from local presidents in the hall who had sought higher pensions than the negotiators apparently were able to obtain.

Pensions were hiked from the present $5 a month for each year of service to $6.50. In addition, Abel said that the negotiators "have been able to wipe out the social security deduction," which now is $60 monthly.

Other proposals offered by the companies were:

- Increased late shift differentials. The 4 p.m. to midnight shift increased from eight to 12 cents an hour; midnight to 8 a. m. shift from 12 to 15 cents an hour.

- Improved incentive pay to cover those workers now uncovered.

- One additional holiday.
- One-half pension benefits for widows over 55.

- An additional $1,000 in life insurance.
- Major medical hospitalization program.

Abel said that the problem to cover all workers with incentive pay "held us up more than anything else."

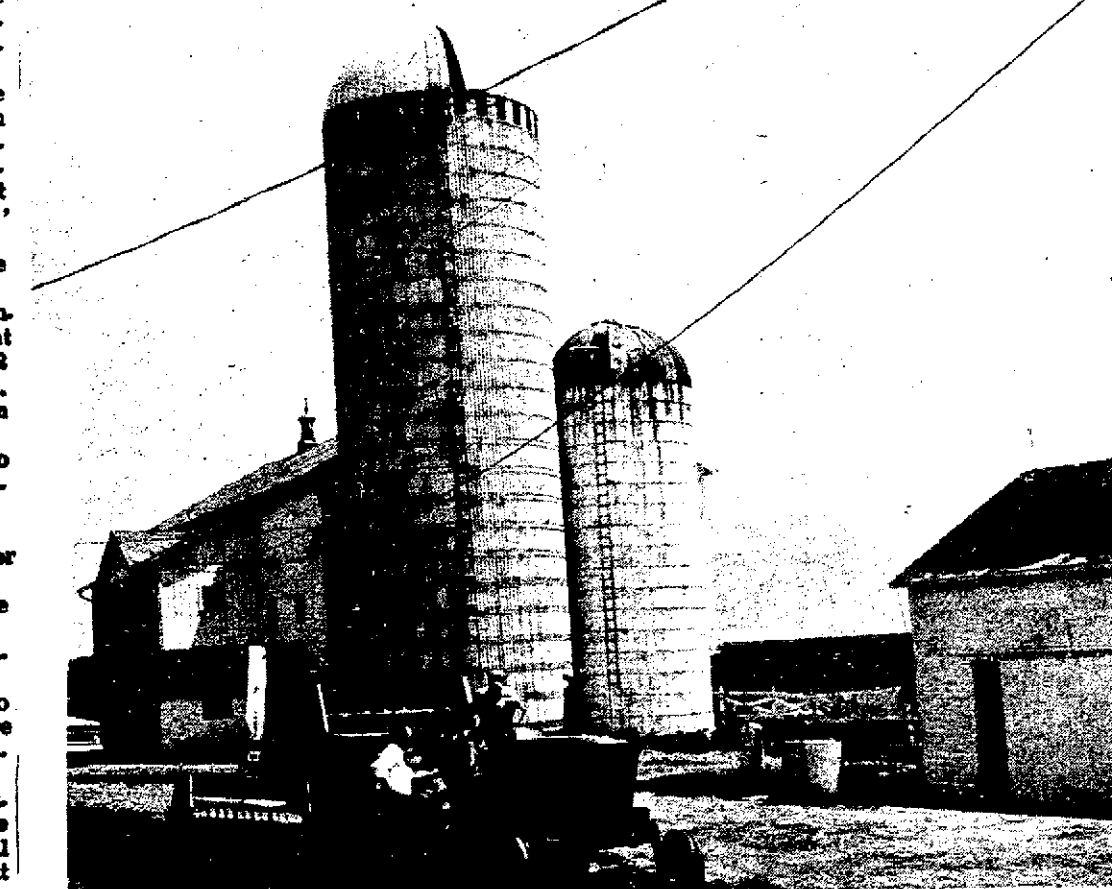

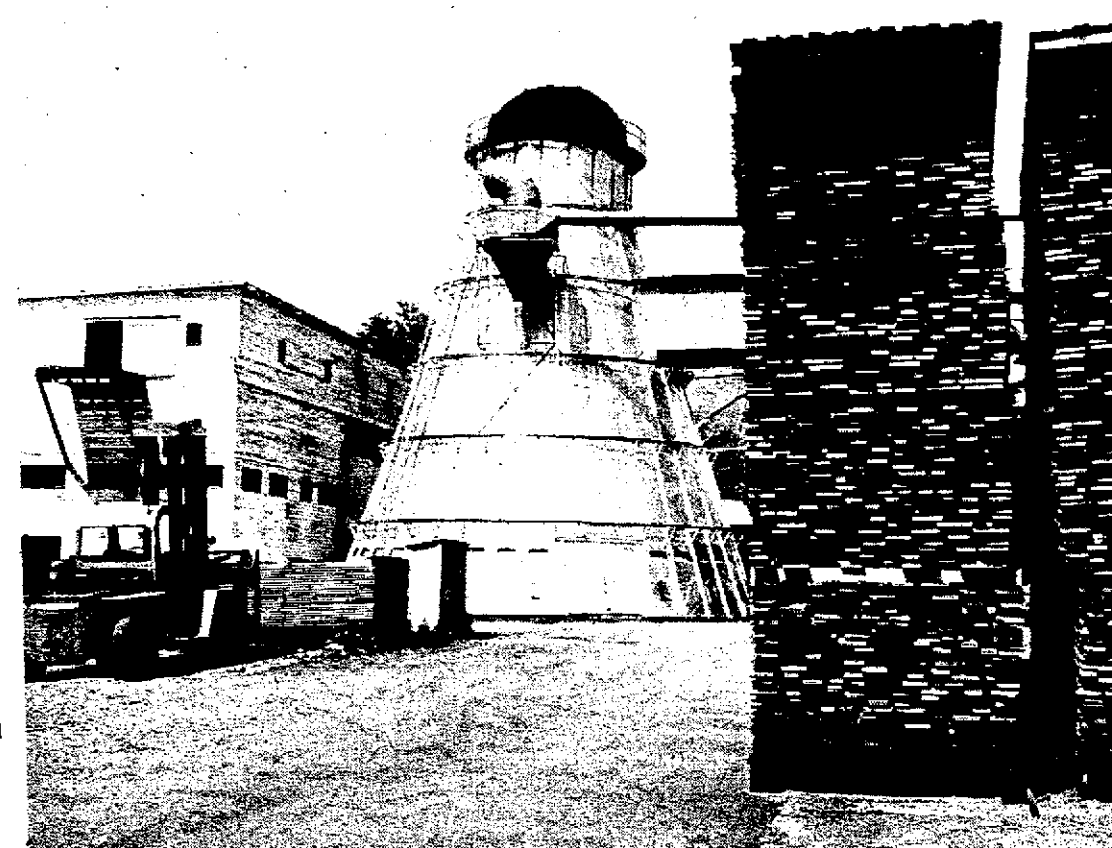

The white-haired Steelworkers boss said that the incentive agreement wasn't reached until late Tuesday morning and that the language will have to be worked out after a joint union-management study.

Pending that, he said the industry will put 10 cents an hour into an escrow fund which will be paid to the uncovered workers, retroactive to the start of the new contract, when agreement is reached.

Secretary-treasurer Walter Burke told the conference that the incentive offer, which reportedly had threatened to cause some wildcat strikes, "was the best we could get."

"This breaks the long deadlock on jobs that don't have incentive coverage," Burke added.

Annual Auto Tour All Set for Thursday

TOUR ROUTE INCLUDES THESE SITES

The Warren County Cooperative Extension Service invites all those interested in joining the annually sponsored auto tour to meet Thursday at 9 a.m. at the Troyer and Weaver Potato Farm in Garland, top photo, where those participating will watch potato fields sprayed by airplane, visit potato storage facilities, and learn modern agricultural methods of planting and harvesting. The next stop will be the Fisher and Young Lumber Mill, second picture, in Titusville. The schedule calls for a guided tour of the mill, one of the largest in northwestern Pennsylvania, beginning about 10:20 a.m. The group will then move on to the Drake Well Park and Museum, third picture. After arriving at approximately 11:40 a.m., they will divide; one section will eat the picnic lunches which they are to bring while the rest of the tourists are shown through the museum. Then the two groups will switch roles, so that each will have at least 45 minutes to eat and 45 minutes to see the museum. The fourth stop on the annual tour will be Hummer Farms, shown in bottom photo, at R.D. 1, Titusville, where the visitors will see an authentic dairy operation. To close the 1968 tour, the group will journey to Glen Hill Farms, Centerville, Pa. Everyone will witness a beef feeding operation unique to northwestern Pennsylvania — a mechanized feed lot. Arrangements to join the tour can be made by calling the County Cooperative Extension Service, telephone 723-7550.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL E. MATTE

Falconer-Mattie Nuptials

Diane J. Falconer and Paul E. Matte pledged their wedding vows in the Chandlers Valley Evangelical United Brethren Church in the presence of one hundred and twenty guests recently. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Falconer of 1530 Yankee Bush road and the groom is the son of Mr. Herman Matte of Jamestown, and Mrs. Nellie Matte of 612 N. Main street, Jamestown, N.Y.

The Rev. Charles McIntyre, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring service. Wedding music was provided by Paul Johnson, organist and Calvin Gage, vocalist. Church decorations included gladioli and greenery.

Escorted on the arm of her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of organza with Chantilly lace pearly appliques at the rounded neckline and on the bouffant skirt which extended into a full chapel train edged in the lace and also had scattered appliques of the lace. The long sleeves of the gown were tapered. Her veil of silk illusion depended from a pearl and crystal crown. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Miss Susan A. Falconer, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids, cousins of the bride, were Miss Karen Matte and Mrs. Cynthia Becker. The attendants were all gowned in blue with matching veils attached to headaddresses of tulle and pearl petals and florets. They carried colonial bouquets of white chrysanthemums. Dressed similarly was the flower girl, Mistress Rhonda Bednar who had a hair bow of daisies.

The best man was Larry Gertsch, a cousin of the groom; ushers were Don Matte, brother of the groom and Gene Falconer, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a gown of wheat color with Venetian lace trim and white accessories. Elsie Unig, grandmother, was remembered with a white rose corsage.

The reception was held in the social room of the church, with one hundred guests attending. Decorations were carried out in white and blue streamers with bell clusters.

Aides were Mrs. Carol Turner, Mrs. Joan Abbey, Mrs. Eileen Anderson, the Ladies Aid of the EUB Church.

For traveling to Niagara Falls, N.Y., the new Mrs. Matte wore an ensemble of yellow print cotton with white accessories. After September, Mr. and Mrs. Matte will reside in Memphis, Tenn.

The bride is a 1967 graduate to Eisenhower High School and is presently employed as a Bell Telephone Company operator. The groom is a 1966 graduate of Jamestown High School and is now serving in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Mrs. Carol Turner.

Out of town guests at the wedding came from McKeesport.

Aqaba is a vital port and transportation hub for Jordan, which is nearly landlocked.

The bidding:
West North East South
1♥ Pass 2♥ Dble.
Pass 2♦ 2♥ 3♠
Pass 4♠ Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠
Some shrewd detective work based on inferences drawn from the bidding helped South, the declarer at four spades, to uncover the winning line of play.

West's opening bid of one heart was passed around to South who reopened with a take-out double. North duly responded with two diamonds and East, who had already denied the strength to keep the bidding open, offered a competitive raise to two hearts.

A free bid of two spades by South would designate a reasonably good hand. When he chose instead to jump to three spades, North can hardly be blamed for carrying on to game.

West opened the king of hearts and continued with the ace. When declarer's queen appeared, West shifted to the queen of diamonds. Dummy's ace was played and declarer drew three rounds of trump. East's heart discard on the last spade revealed that his partner had a trump trick.

In order to avert a setback, it was necessary for South to pick up the club suit without loss. He led a diamond to North's king and returned the ten of clubs. East false-carded mildly by following with the four; however, South—after a moment's reflection—put up the ace of clubs and dropped West's king. Declarer conceded a trump trick to his opponent and claimed the contract.

South's decision not to take the club finesse—which would be the normal course of action missing five cards in the suit—was influenced by the auction. East's failure to keep his partner's one heart bid open presumably marked him with less than six points counting high cards and distribution. His subsequent competitive heart raise indicated that he held a reasonably good distributional fit with his partner. South decided that, if East had the king of clubs in addition, he might have chanced a raise on the first round.

There was the added factor that—with only 15 high-card points outstanding—West as the opening bidder, was more apt to hold a missing king.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 31, 1968.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—If not making the progress you should, stop, investigate, ask questions and, if necessary, retrace steps. Much can be done to step up advancement.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Before you take off in whatever your direction, wait long enough to carefully gather necessary data and do keep your wits about you. This is no day for taking action blindly.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Look for the best ways to handle your duties: There are always improved methods, devices, implements. And you can be the one to devise them.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Review the inner forces that drive you. Are you sure you are on the right course and that you are looking at all sides of the picture? Day's influences call for better than average effort.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Attainment indicated through steady endeavor. Planetary influences stimulate your special brand of quick wit, affability and sociability. But keep things in order, and harmonious.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Be alert to all opportunities. You may not attain all that you wish, but day can be more than just satisfying, and can lead to bigger rewards soon.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Sometimes one can blunder into an opportunity to succeed, but only those who are steady in their endeavors and efforts make enduring gains. Remember this now. Use trump cards strategically; aim to score often.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—Put inferences, conceded facts and other material together and scrutinize well. Then you will be surer when you make decisions and move ahead. Once organized, you can make this a dandy day.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—There is more to think about than the immediate moment. And doubtless more people involved with your plans and activities than you realize. So take more time to organize a better system.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—To be successful now, ideas and plans need not be on a large scale. Settle things quickly that lend themselves to an average day and to your talents; take other matters carefully, slowly.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—If you cannot attain in one way, you can in another. Many "impossibles" are possible now, and you can break past records. But don't belittle small gains.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Avoid a prevailing tendency toward lethargy. Don't drop slow-moving projects because you either lose interest or decide they are "useless." You CAN deliver the goods!

YOU BORN TODAY are courageous, independent and generous; are willing to share your assets with others, but often demand your own way. You are warmhearted, like to make new friends though you do not desert old ones. You love life in all its aspects, but may withdraw into a tight shell when it disappoints you. This you must overcome, along with tendencies towards jealousy and obstinacy. You are suited to a position that brings you in contact with many people; could do well in public relations, salesmanship, on the stage. Birthdate of: John Ericsson, Swedish naval engineer.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

FIRST AID AFLOAT

Every boat should carry a medical kit and the owner ought to have a little knowledge of first aid in case a doctor cannot be reached. The water-proof container should consist of ordinary household remedies such as bandages, gauze, adhesive, and elastic bandage, soap, splinter forceps, and scissors.

The most useful medicines are aspirin, paregoric, calamine lotion, and a motion sickness product such as Dramamine or Bonamine. For longer trips, take along a sedative, and antibiotic such as erythromycin, and an antihistaminic preparation.

Sunburn and insects are the week-end sailor's greatest hazards. For these problems, the kit should contain a compound to screen out ultraviolet rays and a bug repellent.

Seasickness is a joy-killer. Mild distress can be ignored, except for getting plenty of fresh air. Concentrating on close work such as reading a magazine, knitting, or playing cards may help.

Avoid food, because even a whiff from the galley may trigger nausea. Now and then tobacco aggravates the distress. If the victim turns slightly green, make him sit or lie down on the deck. He can be made comfortable and covered with a blanket. Keep a pan handy at all times.

On a large vessel, lead the seasick passenger to the rail, but be sure he is leeward. Tie a rope around his abdomen if the boat is tossing. Severe seasickness may result in shock. Should this occur, a stimulant may be given while the skipper heads for the shore.

TOMORROW: Ragweed -- Nature's Air Pollutant.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

WALKING TIRES KNEES

A reader writes: Walking any distance is troublesome because my knees get tired. I must stop and rest every few blocks before continuing. What causes this?

REPLY: The most likely culprits are arthritis of the knee joints, a disturbance of the cartilage, or weakness of the quadriceps muscle (hamstring). If pain or cramping occurs in the muscles in the area, a circulatory disturbance may be responsible.

HANDS PUFFY IN MORNING

A.F. writes: For several months my hands have been swollen every morning. After I have been up and active for a few hours they are normal. What causes this change? I am in my 70s.

REPLY: It is normal for the hands to be larger on arising. They usually go down after the person is up and about for several hours. Swelling may be aggravated by arthritis or a dropsical condition.

MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR

Shakespearean Play To be Presented

Chautauqua, New York — Shakespeare's merriest play, "The Merry Wives of Windsor," opens tomorrow (Thursday) at the Chautauqua Repertory Theater in Norton Hall. Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. for this frothy bit of summertime entertainment which will be repeated at the same time on Saturday evening, August 3.

Sir John Falstaff, the portly knight to be played by Robert Snook, stands out as perhaps the most endearing of Shakespeare's many memorable characters. Mr. Snook's amusing interpretation of Sir John Falstaff has been developed through not only his performances of "The Merry Wives" last season with the Cleveland Playhouse, but also in his portrayal of the same foolish knight in Shakespeare's play, "Henry the Fourth." Falstaff was one of Shakespeare's favorite characters and he wrote him into several of his plays. Verdi also was attracted to the character of Falstaff and immortalized him in his opera "Falstaff" which was given by the Chautauqua Opera Association last season.

staff falls in love in a situation comedy whose broad slap-stick is as contemporary now as it was 350 years ago. Perhaps its most famous scene is that of the two scheming matrons who plot to make a fool of the vain, pudgy old, fellow. In a fake seduction scene they so confuse poor Sir John that he is bundled into a laundry basket and dumped in the river with the washing! All's well that ends well, however, Falstaff gets his come-uppance, the young lovers triumph over adversity and the merry wives are pleased with the grand joke they have played on their would-be lover.

Richard Oberlin directs the bawdy and boisterous comedy and his cast, in addition to Robert Snook, includes Jean Morris and Myrna Kaye as the two finagling wives, and Robert Allman and Jonathan Bolt as their suspicious and worried husbands. Evie McElroy plays the earthy, conniving servant, Mistress Quickly. Others in the large cast are Daniel Chodos, Brammer Carlson, Allen Leatherman, David Frazier, Beccy Myers and Cathy Heiser.

Tickets for the "Merry Wives of Windsor" may be had by writing or phoning the Play and Opera Ticket Office, Chautauqua, New York or at the Chamber of Commerce in Jamestown, New York or the Charles Tranter Public Relations Office in Warren, Pa.

PEACH COBBLER

Scotland's well-loved oatmeal scone inspires the "blossom" topping for Scone-flower Peach Cobbler. The pretty peaches underneath are

'Scone-flower' Blooms Atop Golden Peaches

Cling or freestone, cousin to the cherry, apricot and almond, the golden velvet-skinned peach is irreplaceable. Here it's baked fresh in a delightful deep dish dessert — Scone-flower Peach Cobbler.

What's a "scone-flower"? It's the well-known feather-light scone, usually triangular or diamond-shaped, cut to subtly suggest a five-petal flower. It's a scone — made of oatmeal. And toasty rolled oats in the "scone-flower" topping mean that same wonderful flavor which distinguishes oatmeal cookies, breads and rolls.

The summer-smooth filling starts with tender, golden fresh peaches — but you'll enjoy this cobbler out of season, too, with convenient frozen fruit. Either way it's a delightful recipe you'll use the whole year 'round.

Top Scone-flower Peach Cobbler with cream or whipped cream for a fine, rich finish. Make it ahead and serve cold or — for a very special treat — bring it in bubbly hot from the oven.

SCONEFLOWER PEACH COBBLER

Makes 8 servings
PEACH FILLING:
1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1 cup water
4 cups sliced fresh peaches (+)

SCONE TOPPING:
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/3 cup shortening
1/2 cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1 egg

Heat oven to hot (400 degrees F.). For filling, combine sugar, cornstarch and ginger in large saucepan. Gradually blend in water. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened. Add peaches; keep hot while preparing topping.

For topping, sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Break egg into measuring cup and beat slightly with fork. Add enough MILK to measure 1/2 cup. Add egg-milk mixture to flour mixture; stir with fork until dough can be formed into ball.

Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead gently a few seconds. Roll out to 1/2-inch thickness. Cut with floured doughnut cutter to make 8 circles. Do not remove centers. With floured scissors, make five snips around edge of each circle, to resemble petals. Sprinkle with SUGAR.

Pour hot filling into 9-inch square baking pan. Arrange scone circles with centers on top of filling in a circle, with one in center. Bake in preheated oven (400 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until scones are golden brown. Serve hot or cold. Top with CREAM or WHIPPED CREAM, if desired.

(+) NOTE: Thawed frozen peaches can be used in place of fresh peaches. Drain well, reserving 1 cup syrup. Use peach syrup in place of water. Reduce sugar to 1/4 cup and cornstarch to 2 tablespoons.

Picnic From the Pantry Real Treat for the Family

Have you a trick or two up your sleeve to meet summer-weary youngsters' chorus of, "There's nothing to do,?" Here's a suggestion that mothers as well as their offspring will enjoy. Pack up a "Can-Do" picnic, corral those bored youngsters, and head for the park, or a shady spot in the backyard.

What's a Can-Do picnic? It's a royal flavor feast that you put together in no time from on-hand items in freezer or pantry. From the freezer comes tasty franks to cut in thirds and thread on kabob skewers along with canned whole white potatoes, small sweet pickles, and stuffed green olives. Grill the kabobs over a charcoal fire, and baste with a barbecue sauce of piquant flavor that children really go for. It, too, comes right off your pantry shelf — out of a can of double rich, double thick and expertly seasoned condensed tomato soup. Stir in vinegar, brown sugar and a small amount of prepared mustard. When the savory kabobs are grilled to a turn, serve with the remaining sauce which has been heating on the edge of the grill.

Complete your "Can-Do" picnic with a green bean and mushroom salad (canned green beans and canned mushrooms tossed with bottled Italian style dressing) and for dessert, canned ready-to-serve pudding in the youngsters' favorite flavors.

PICNIC KABOBS WITH PIQUANT SAUCE
1 can (10 1/4 ounces) condensed tomato soup
1/4 cup vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard

QUICK SUPPER

Rx for busy moms with summer-weary youngsters: the "Can-Do" picnic. Every item in this flavor feast except the frankfurters comes from your pantry shelf. In no time you'll be enjoying tasty kabobs, a hearty vegetable salad, and even pudding.

Combine all ingredients. Makes 1 1/2 cups sauce.
FRANKFURTER KABOB
Prepare sauce. On 8 skewers, arrange alternately; 8 frankfurters cut in thirds, 1 can (1 pound) whole potatoes, drained, 8 whole sweet pickles, 8 large stuffed green olives. Place on grill about 5 inches above glowing coals. Brush kabobs with sauce. Cook about 10 minutes, brushing with sauce and turning twice. Heat remaining sauce; serve with kabobs. Makes 4 servings.

Seafaring Chicken Crisp

Crisp fried chicken can always be counted on to brighten the picnic table, whether on land or sea. A good traveler, chicken is easy to eat out of hand and is well high everyone's favorite food.

Seafaring Chicken Crisp, a crunchy oven-fried chicken recipe from the test kitchens of The R. T. French Company, is a well seasoned traveler, indeed. It has a delightful zesty flavor that comes with the addition of prepared yellow mustard and Worcestershire Sauce to the batter. And the mixture of melted butter and bread crumbs gives the chicken its crisp golden brown coating.

SEAFARING CHICKEN CRISP
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon French's Prepared Yellow Mustard
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons French's Worcestershire Sauce
1 1/2 cups fine dry bread crumbs
1/3 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 1/2 to 3-pound fryer chicken, cut up
Combine egg, mustard, salt, and Worcestershire sauce. In a second bowl combine bread crumbs and butter. Dip chicken pieces first in egg mixture then in crumb mixture. Place in a greased shallow baking pan and bake in 400 degree oven 1 hour or until tender. Serve hot or cold. 4 servings.

The Maldives consist of some 2,000 coral islands totaling 115 square miles. The island-city of Male is only a mile long and hardly half a mile wide. Some 12,000 people live on Male. The total population of the Maldives is 93,000.

SO MUCH FOR SO LITTLE. So much good eating for so little work, that is, when you make summer meals easy by serving frozen prepared dinners. Try the haddock dinner tonight . . . filet of haddock with golden cream sauce, whipped potatoes, peas in butter sauce, and a baking powder biscuit. For a refreshing touch, garnish the filet with parsleyed lemon slices before serving.

THE HARRIS SURVEY

By LOUIS HARRIS

Perhaps nothing is more illustrative of this puzzling and unpredictable election year than the fact that in a test presidential trial heat in mid-July, Lyndon Johnson still runs 41 to 35 percent ahead of Richard Nixon, with George Wallace receiving 17 percent of the vote. When Mr. Johnson bowed out of the race at the end of March, he held only a slim 41 to 39 percent lead over Nixon.

At first glance, it would appear that President Johnson, by widening his margin over Nixon from two to six points, is considerably stronger as a retired candidate than when nearly everyone believed he would run for re-election. In fact, however, Lyndon Johnson's total has remained at 41 percent in the ensuing four months, while Richard Nixon has slipped four points, all picked up by George Wallace on a third-party ticket.

Paradoxically, Mr. Johnson's relatively large margin in this latest test in the polls comes at a time when his job rating is down again, to 43 percent positive, after a temporary spurt from its all-time low of 38 in March. The President's 1968 high of 57 percent came immediately after his withdrawal from the presidential race and the concurrent announcement that negotiations to end the Vietnam conflict were going to take place.

Here is the trend of President Johnson's overall job rating in the past year:

L.B.J. OVERALL JOB RATING
RATED POSITIVE

March 38
February 42
January 46
December, 1967 48
November 43
October 41
September 42
August 39
July 58

Every rise of Mr. Johnson's overall rating over the 50 percent mark in the past year has been clearly related to some conspicuous effort to achieve peace. A year ago, his rating soared to 58 percent following his summit meeting at Glasboro with Soviet Chairman Kosygin.

When eight specific areas of Mr. Johnson's efforts in the White House were tested among the voters, no one of them won a positive rating from a majority. He receives his highest mark, however, on working for peace.

SPECIFIC L.B.J. JOB RATING
JULY MAY MARCH
PER CENT PER CENT PER CENT

Positive on:
Working for peace 44 52 41
Helping the poor 43 48 51

Inspiring confidence 33 31 31
Handling Vietnamese war 32 38 38
Handling taxes 27 29 28
Keeping cost of living down 16 18 17

While the President's standing on working for peace is above that before his announcement last March, his rating on handling the Vietnamese war has gone down four points since then. The drop in his Vietnam rating coincides with a growing feeling that the peace talks in Paris are not likely to yield positive results.

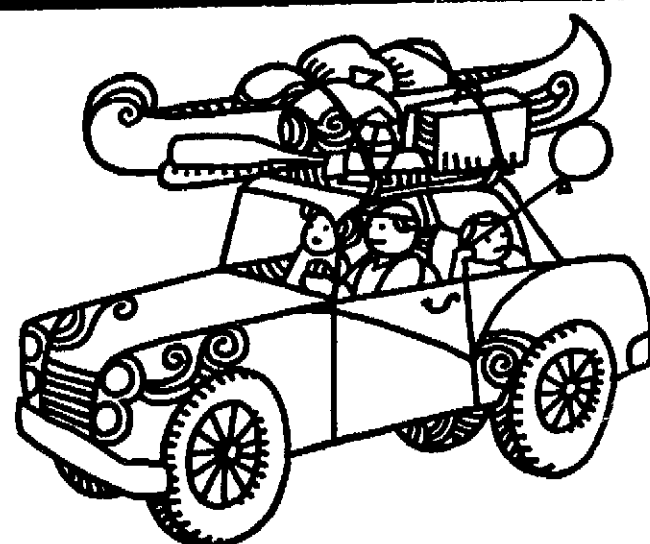

Another area of decline for Mr. Johnson is in the category of "helping the poor," which has dropped consistently since the first of the year. His rating on "keeping the economy healthy" is at its lowest ebb since last October.

Nonetheless, Mr. Johnson's standing in "inspiring confidence" has risen somewhat since March. And, of course, he is running well ahead of Richard Nixon in this latest Harris Survey, conducted among a cross section of 1,569 voters July 8-14:

L.B.J. VS. NIXON VS. WALLACE
MID-JULY MARCH
PER CENT PER CENT

Johnson 41 41
Nixon 35 39
Wallace 17 13

For all of the political "trouble" in which Lyndon Johnson has been seriously reported, he has never slipped very far behind in presidential polls. To be sure, compared with his landslide proportions of 1964, the President's 1968 position is modest. While it would be a mistake to take his current standing against Nixon as indicative of what would happen in the event of a draft at the Democratic National Convention, it is also a mistake to conclude that Lyndon Johnson has no political following in America.
